Written by David Gomberg
Wednesday, 15 September 2010 01:42

2004 World Sport Kite Championships
Berck sur Mer, France

Airzone won the draw and flew first and last on the first dat. That means they called in for precision

So applause please for Head Judge Dave Hansen, and judges Peter Fiedler, John Mitchell, Susan Shar

Midway through competition on Day 1, the wind came to a complete standstill. Team Neo, a minute into

Precision had run smoothly but slowly though the morning and ballet got underway right after lunch. Sev

The flying was quite simply the best I have seen in years. It was great, but for the most part, it was not e

There was one unexpected highlight when Mary Boz pulled off her sweatshirt and accidentally took her t

Here are the final scores Note that precision is listed first and ballet second banquet for final announc

The World Sport Kite Championships (not to be confused with the now defunct World Cup) is organized

Place	Team	Day 1
Tue. April 20	th	Day 2
Wed. April 21	st	Day 3
Thu. April 22	nd	Final
Precision / Ballet	Precision / Ballet	Precision / Ballet
1	Element'Air (France)	74.90 / 52.76	74.92 / 85.88
2	Tame Bird (France)	51.88 / 80.16	71.38 / 78.16
3	Cutting Edge (USA)	74.88 / 79.48	56.32 / 69.92
4	Kamikaze (Japan)	75.94 / 73.56	65.32 / 73.96
5	Watnu (Germany)	72.36 / 60.56	73.82 / 72.20

6	Garuda (Germany)	70.18 / 72.44	72.52 / 74.76
7	Tatoueurs du Ceil (France)	68.78 / 74.24	58.72 / 73.60
8	Windy Majic (Japan)	66.50 / 45.40	70.70 / 67.04
9	Scratch Bunnies (UK)	63.72 / 48.68	64.74 / 68.04
10	AirZone (USA)	63.72 / 64.60	60.34 / 60.88
11	Flame (UK)	65.28 / 54.08	56.32 / 63.88
12	Neo (Japan)	46.02 / 59.60	51.40 / 61.40
13	Matrix Mgt.(UK)	50.44 / 49.16	45.02 / 62.04
14	MVM (USA)	40.38 / 44.72	55.28 / 61.08
15	Equipo 2600 (Columbia)	40.28 / 41.92	37.14 / DQ
16	Fabuloso (Argentina)	16.04 / 27.72	44.44 / 46.04
17	Team Malaysia (Malaysia)	Scratch / Scratch	Scratch / 20.84

Meanwhile, despite the light breezes, the single line show continues.
And as the week unfolds, more and more stuff takes to the sky.

Our thanks to David Gomberg for providing these images and report.